This reading guide summarizes ATG's supplied documents. The program is in development; descriptions of intended services are not announcements that enrollment or delivery has begun.

One governing authority

The Board of Directors is ATG's sole governing body. Two committees receive defined authority: the Education Board for curriculum, evaluation, credentials, and apprenticeship administration; and the Standards Board for field standards, stop-work criteria, audits, and standards advocacy.

The seats currently recorded

R. Brennen is Founder, Executive Director, and a Director, with seats on both governing committees. Kathy Gill is a Director in the Training & Education seat and serves on the Education Board as Founding Headmaster. She is not seated on the Standards Board. Bill Tubb serves in an advisory capacity and is not a Director.

What is still being assembled

Neither governing committee has reached its three-member quorum. The Board exercises those responsibilities directly during the founding period. Seating an independent Director majority is a stated priority. Evaluator independence requirements continue to apply.

Disclosures and independent review

Brennen owns Infra-Tech Solutions and holds an equity interest in LEO X. Their contemplated ATG roles are prospective and subject to approval. Kathy Gill owns Tower Safety Institute and must recuse from decisions involving its accreditation and evaluation of its trainees. Related-party arrangements require advance disclosure, recusal, documented market comparisons, and independent approval. Until an independent Board majority is seated, new or expanded related-party arrangements require independent outside review.

Appeals and evaluator independence

No body hears its own case. The Map provides for a three-person Appeals Panel, a 30-day filing window, and no fee to appeal. Evaluators with a financial interest in the training institution must recuse; panels require an evaluator independent of that institution. An outside evaluator is used when independence cannot be met internally.
